Fresno Camera Club—September Highlights

Hello All,

Well summer is starting to come to a close. Hopefully the cool weather will return soon. I know we all need a break from this horrible heat we have had. I have enjoyed all the photo's I've seen on Facebook of some of your travels this summer.

Looks like some of you did some good traveling.

September. We will have a board meeting on the 12th of the month. It's time to start thinking about new officers, so anyone interested in a office let me know. The nominations will be at the October meeting.

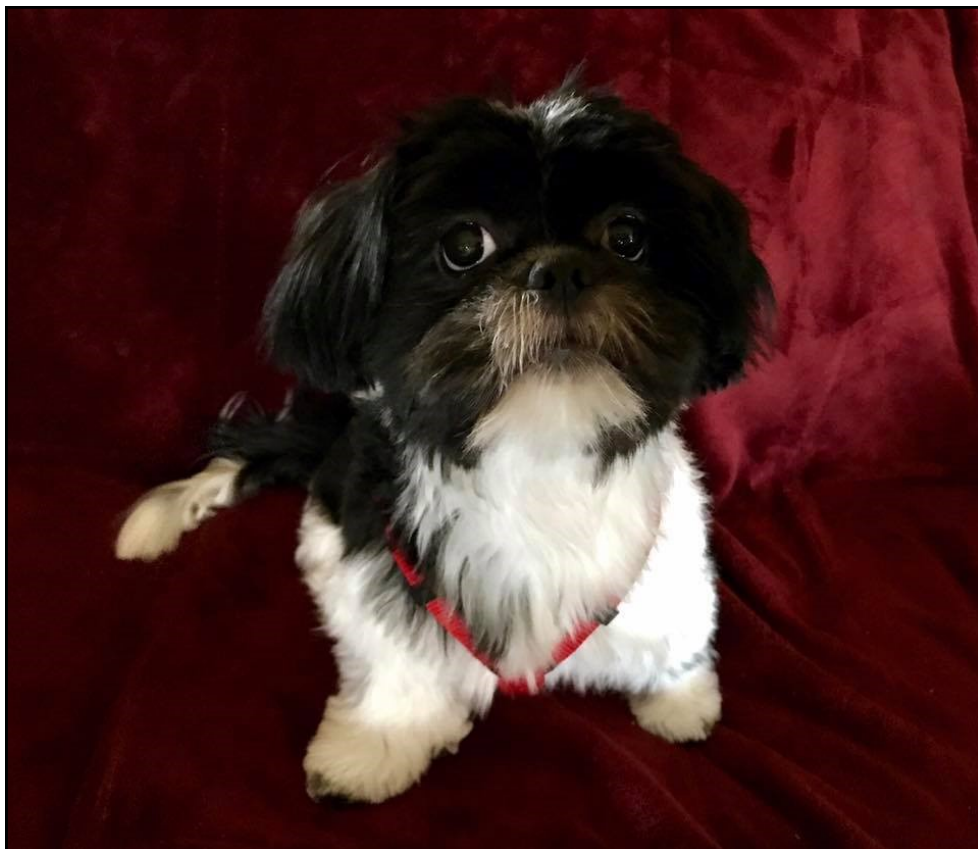

September is going to be a digital competition and we will welcome back as judge Dennis Montejano.

Mov'n On Dee

Me? I have been consumed on training my puppy. I have asked myself a 100 times "What was I thinking?" Puppies are an awful lot of work! This pretty little girl (Shih Tzu) is definitely a handful. I believe I've lost at least a quart of blood on those sharp needle like teeth! Can't wait till she GROWS UP!

I didn't do much traveling myself. Went to Huntington Lake for a family camping trip, the weather was great and so the the water. It's so nice to see all the lakes full again.

It's time for me to get my head back into photography again. So again no program night in

July Meeting Recap

The July BBQ was a fun time. Dee gave thanks to Harris Hays, Art Serabian and Carey Johnson for cooking the tri tip. We had a vote of trying burgers and hot dogs at next year's BBQ with the club paying for desert. So we will try this out in 2018.

Shelley Stone did the 50/50 drawing and Loye was the winner of $51.

Fresno Fair is coming up. Entries are only submitted online, due by September 11, 2017. We will be coordinating volunteers to man our booth during the fair, be on the lookout for an email from Sign Up Genius and please sign up for a time slot. Everyone that signs up will get a ticket and a parking pass.

We probably will not have Horn Photo as our Program Night location as they will start doing classes on their new patio.

Herb Spencer brought up that Fotoclave will be back this year (please see page 17 for more information).

Lewis Kemper will be at Council in September for the Digital Workshop (more information on Page 14, any one is welcome to attend, lunch is $17).

Gary Stewart is our judge for the evening. He selected Winter Trees by James Sanderson and Along the Avon River, Bath, England by Jonathan Rollins as prints of the night.

Winter Trees

By James Sanderson

Taken in Yosemite Valley after a late winter storm. One of my favorite places to shoot in the valley during the Fall and Winter is El Capitan Meadow. This shot was taken near Northside Drive at the end of the meadow and captured the mood of the day with the fresh snow on the oaks highlighted by diffuse light and set against the Cathedral Rocks in the background. Printed on Hahnemuhle Photo Rag Baryta.

Yosemite Raven

By James Sanderson

Taken in Yosemite Valley several winters ago. The ravens in the valley seem omnipresent all year round and my favorite time to photograph them is in the winter. This one, with an eye for a handout, was on a fence post on Northside Drive. The shot was taken so that the background contained only snow so as to contrast with the black raven. Printed on Moab Slickrock Metallic Pearl paper to give a metallic sheen to the piece.

Rafting in the Merced

By Ray Anderson

On the way home from Yosemite we passed a group rafting on the Merced. We were able to get far enough ahead of them to set up a tripod and get the shot. The camera used was a full frame mirrorless Sony a7RII set at 74mm, f/5.6, 1/750 and iso 200.

Along the Avon River, Bath, England

By Jonathan Rollins

Image taken in Bath, England on a beautiful day. The light was good and the sky was great. Camera was mounted on a carbon fiber tripod using a Really Right Stuff B55 ball head. I waited about 15 minutes for the clouds to move into a place I liked. This photo was taken in the late morning. I was using a Nikon D800E: lens used was a 24 to 70mm at 36mm, 1/1600 second, ISO 640, -1.67 matrix exposure.

Little Chapel on the Prairie

By Loye Stone

The title of this image is “Little Chapel on the Prairie ” because it is on the Laura Ingalls’ (author of “Little House on the Prairie”) family homestead in South Dakota. Shelley, Dee and I visited South Dakota a few years ago to photograph the “Great American Buffalo Round-up” just south of Rapid City. You can’t go wrong photographing in South Dakota as there is a wide range of subjects to shoot, including nearby Mount Rushmore, Crazy Horse Monument, Devils Tower, the city of Deadwood and Native Americans.

I shot this image with a Canon 50d camera with a Canon 24-105 zoom lens at 50mm, f/22, 1/100 second shutter speed and ISO 200, hand held. I felt very lucky to have the old wooden fence to place in the foreground and the stormy sky above.

John Ford Point in Downpour

by Art Serabian

This image was taken in the Fall of 2015 in Monument Valley as viewed from John Ford Point (named after the famous movie director). The day was filled with unpredictable weather that ranged from a drizzle to an out-right downpour that made roads look like rivers. The rain gave the earth a wonderful warm reddish-brown color and the vegetation a crisp vibrant “clean” feel.

As I began to post-process the raw image file (NEF), I saw what I thought was digital noise and pixel artifacts sprinkled through the image. I tried a variety of Photoshop techniques to mask the subtle anomalies with little success – it was at that moment I realized I was seeing rain in the image and not a flaw in my file. After much experimentation, I was able to make the rain appear more visible in the print - at least at arm’s length. Beyond a few feet, the rain is not visible in the print, and the “angry clouds,” saturated colors, and composition of the scene are the main sources of impact.

Tech Specs: I used a handheld Nikon D810 with a Nikkor 24-70mm lens at 35mm. The exposure was made using matrix metering and aperture priority. The ISO was set to 320, the f-stop was f/11, and the exposure time was 1/400 of a second. Post-processing was in Photoshop CS6. The image was printed on Epson Luster Ultra Premium Photo Paper with an Epson 3880 Stylus Pro and Epson UltraChrome K3 inks.
